Through its participation in United Nations peacekeeping missions, India has made significant contributions to maintaining global peace and stability. Additionally, India's strong stance on terrorism, promoting regional cooperation, and its role as a mediator in international forums show its commitment to reducing tensions. By offering humanitarian aid, supporting refugees, and pushing for equitable solutions, India strengthens its position as a global peacemaker. With its influence in international platforms like the G20 and BRICS, India's efforts are key to creating lasting peace worldwide. Cheers! India, becoming a VETO power is not far.
